

Many thanks for your interest in having a feng shui design consultation.

Below is some information on my process when working with my clients:

- First things first, if you haven't done so already schedule a Free discovery call with me so that we can discuss your needs and how I can help you.
- Send me through a copy of your floor-plans, your date, place and time of birth and completed questionnaire, listing your full address and eircode and some information about your property.
- Schedule our consultation for a date and time which works for your schedule
- I will design a customised feng shui design consultation based on your needs and requirements.
- During our consultation I will guide you through the process of the application of feng shui design to your space. We integrate the energy of your space with your individual energetic signature, to best support your energy on every level as you work, rest and play. Our consultation itself will take approx 2-3 hours (this can vary according to your requirements and the space involved)
- I will provide you with a detailed easy to follow, step by step report which you can refer to as you move through the process of applying feng shui design to your home.
- In the weeks that follow our consultation we can keep the conversation open so that you can email me with any questions you have re the advice given in the report.
- My process of working with my clients takes the confusion out of integrating feng shui with good interior design practice. Providing you with all of the guidance you need to create a home which reflects your personal style and aesthetic, works on a practical level, feels great to occupy and has a sense of dynamic balance. Thus supporting you on every level as you work. rest and play.
- For clients who are undertaking building works and renovations, I can provide additional follow-on consultations should you need more guidance in pulling together interior design schemes, choosing material finishes and so on based on your personalised feng shui design recommendations.

Whats involved in having a Feng Shui Design Consultation with me?

My practice integrates more than 30 years of experience working in complimentary health therapies, interior design, feng shui and healthy homes. A feng shui consultation with me involves looking at every aspect of your life; what is working, what needs a boost etc. For this reason we take many things into account:

- the physical environment, history of the building, its energetic signature
- the orientation of the building and its position in the landscape.
- your personal energetic signature and your requirements from the space.

Integrating your personal energy with that of your environment

My process for consulting with my clients involves first calculating their elemental or energetic signature which is derived from several different systems of numerology based on their date, place and time of birth. This provides invaluable information about how best to support their energy within their living and working spaces and also offers a unique insight into their potential energy this year over a 9 year cycle.

We can then integrate this information into the application of feng shui design to their living and working spaces. This offers insight into your personal energy and how it may best be supported in the context of the orientation of the building itself and positioning of key elements within the interior design layout.

Orientation and layout

Next I layer in your personal auspicious and inauspicious directions to face where you spend long periods of time i.e. bedroom, living room, kitchen, home office etc Supporting your energy as you work, rest and play. We can add balancing elements where furnishings are fixed to create a balanced and supportive flow of chi/energy

Prior to the consultation itself you will need to send me the following information:

- A floor plan of the space involved; a simple A4 line drawing showing room divisions will suffice. Mark in front and back door, compass directions, bed positions for each occupant, cooker position and desk position if you have a home office/study. This does not need to be too detailed, once it is proportionate, that will be fine.
- I also require the date, place and time of birth for each of the occupants of the home.
- A brief note on the history of the home, how long you have lived there, who lived there before you and any details you feel relevant.
- The full address of the property so that we can take an overview of the “lay of the land” and where your home is situated within it.
- A brief note on why you have decided to have the consultation at this time and what outcome you hope to derive from it.

Once I have received your plans and information, I can then schedule in the preliminary work and contact you to set a consultation date that works with your schedule.

The consultation itself takes a minimum of 2 - 3 hours and involves an explanation of your personal best directions (kua) and your feng shui energetic signature based on your feng shui astrology (9 star ki) how best to support your energy and what to expect for this year. I then guide you through how this can be integrated with feng shui design for your space so that your energy is well supported in your home.

Once this has been established I will explain how Feng Shui design principles may be applied to your space in a practical and aesthetically pleasing way to suit your individual lifestyle. This involves looking at all aspects of the design including furniture layout, material finishes, colour, artwork and ornamentation.

Healthy Homes

Where required, I will dowse for geopathic stress and advise on reducing other stressors within the home such as EMF and Chemical pollution. In some cases where geopathic stress is a problem, some balancing work may be carried out. This is simply a way of harmonising earth's energy beneath the built environment.

Dissonant energy can have a detrimental effect on health and well being and if you have been having problems with sleep or have been feeling debilitated since occupying this space, some earth work may be included here.

Space Clearing

As part of your consultation, we can undertake some Space Clearing work. Space Clearing is involved with cleansing the "atmosphere" within a space. It is understood that each space resonates with the energy of the people that have occupied it previously.

Space Clearing cleanses this energy introduces positive intention into a building, lifting the atmosphere in the same way that spring-cleaning does on a physical level.

It is important to do this when we move into a new home or workplace and also to "clear the air" every now and then to refresh the energy within a space so that it allows us to grow and thrive rather than keeping us stuck in the past.

As part of our consultations I provide you with an individually prepared space clearing mist containing 100% pure essential oils to support your desired outcome from our consultation.

Our feng shui design consultation is customised to your needs and will involve a combination of the above elements. Each consultation is somewhat different as I customise it to you and your individual space.

Ongoing guidance

I provide a comprehensive written report afterwards to make further recommendations and to reiterate the advice given during the consultation. This allows me to guide you through the process of applying feng shui design to your space and act as a reference guide for you going forward as your life grows and evolves.

Cost of our feng shui design consultation

For a for a home in the Dublin area , the cost of having a Feng Shui Consultation with me is €450, payable on the day of our consultation. This includes all preliminary work, the consultation on the day and a full written report afterward.

For consultations nationwide, an extra charge is applicable related to mileage and transfer time etc. An exact price will be given prior to our consultation once we have discussed what your requirements are, where the property is located and travel time involved.

I will be delighted to consult with you on the Feng Shui of your home at a date and time that suits your schedule. Remember to allow at least 2-3hrs for our consultation in order to allow for variations in the type of consultation needed on the day.
